Biography

One of Linda Moore Kurth's greatest regrets was that when Keiko, orca star of the "Free Willy" movie, curled his tongue at her, she didn't stick hers out right back at him. But she did write two books about him which was read by hundreds of school children.

Linda is a unique spirit who follows her muse wherever it might take her. Her mantra is to write "stories from the heart," and you'll find heart in every one of her several books. Her work ranges from romance to memoir to self-help, and yes, to a special orca.

Linda lives with her husband in the home of their hearts (He fell in love with her while reading her romance book) in a verdant valley in northwest Washington State between the mountains and the Salish Sea, and not too far from the Olympic rainforest (she's a tree hugger). When she isn't cooking up new stories, she's often creating new recipes with produce from her garden. Many can be found on her recipe blog. She's very grateful for her readers' interest and encouragement in her writing.

Synopsis: God, The Devil, and Divorce tells the story of a Christian woman's marriage and divorce recovery from her "crazymaking" spouse; and how she learned to trust God along the way.

How could Linda Moore Kurth's marriage that once seemed so right become so wrong? Put-downs, shaming, and distancing grow into habitual emotional abuse. Counseling provides glimmers of hope, only for that hope to fade. She is shocked when her latest Christian counselor tells her, "If you divorce, Satan wins."

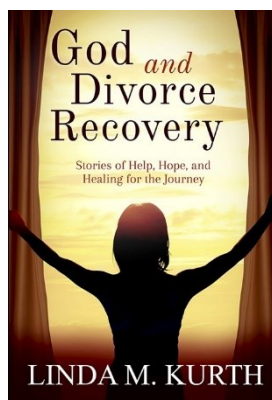

Linda receives a dichotomy of reactions from other Christians for her ultimate decision to leave her marriage. Betrayal and heartache bring her to her knees, but she clings to the belief that God loves her more than He loved her marriage. That belief sustains her as she builds a life of abundant joy. An inspirational read for Christians going through divorce and recovery.
